

2004 CWSS Award of Excellence

Mark M. Mahady

Mark Mahady received his Bachelor of Science Degree in Agronomy from the University of Minnesota and his Master of Science Degree in Plant Science with a specialization in turfgrass research from the University of California, Riverside. He has presented research information at national, regional, state and local conferences, and published articles in professional journals and trade publications. Mark Mahady is a member of the American Society of Agronomy, the American Society for Horticultural Science, the Golf Course Superintendents Association of America and the United States Golf Association. He is also a Certified Professional Agronomist and a California state certified Qualified Applicator and Pest Control Adviser.

The California Weed Science Society is proud to honor Mark with the Award of Excellence for 2004.